BOUND FOR BUFFALO

Try to Keep Waterways Open Until Dec. 15 Because of Coal Shortage

(By the Associated Press.)
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 18.—Twenty-three of the 27 persons who have been missing since the tug Reliance struck on the rocks off Lizard Island last Wednesday have been saved according to reports from the tug Gray, which reached the wreck today.

(Chicago, Dec. 18.—) Battling foot by foot through towering seas and freezing spray, the men who go down to the sea in ships are fighting an epochal battle across the icy wastes of Lake Superior to keep navigation open far beyond its usual time and bring down the lakes the last cargo of the year.

Already the fight has claimed its toll of lives, and before the last ship has been accounted for—or been given up for lost—the toll may be greater.

Nearly a dozen died a few days ago when a Canadian steamer was dashed to pieces within a stone's throw of safety at the mouth of the Portage lake ship canal.

Last night twenty-seven more were added to the probable death toll when survivors of the tug Reliance, wrecked last Wednesday on Lizard Island, reached Sault Ste. Marie after almost incredible hardships.

Navigation on the upper lakes usually closed December 1. This year it was decided to keep the waterways open until December 15 because the coal and rail strikes had cut down the coal shipped to the northwest and delayed the movement of grain east.

Nine Big Freighters
As a result nine big freighters loaded with grain—$28,000,000 worth of ships and cargo—were fighting their way down Lake Superior toward that grave yard of gallant vessels, White Fish Bay, trying to win through to Buffalo for winter storage.

In Mud Lake, part of St. Mary's river, another big fleet, was ice bound waiting for the arrival of the nine which left Port William, Ont., three days ago before trying, with the assistance of ice breaking tugs, to win past detours to the open waters of Lake Huron.

At Eagle Harbor and Grand Marais, White Fish Point and detour, Alpena, Mackinac Island and Manitowish, great naval operators were keeping a tireless vigil, guiding the freighters through the night with radio compass signals, and waiting for the calls for help which may come.

The story of the fate of the tug Reliance, owned by the Superior Paper Company of Sault Ste. Marie, was told yesterday when seven survivors reached the Soo.

Dashed to Pieces
Five days ago the tug with a crew of 14 and 22 passengers, was dashed to pieces on the rocks of Lizard Island, 75 miles north of Point Aux Pins, the western entrance to St. Mary's river and 12 miles from the mainland. The captain and 27 men took one boat and Mr. and Mrs. John Harten, cooks and seven others, took the other.

The captain's boat has not been accounted for but the other, after drifting for several hours in the storm, finally was blown ashore on the Ontario mainland, 85 miles north of Duluth.

Mrs. Harten was so exhausted the party was forced to rest 36 hours at an Indian hut before starting the twenty-mile tramp inland to the railroad. When the railroad was reached Mr. and Mrs. Harten were suffering so much from the cold that they were left at a station for medical treatment while the other seven survivors went on to Sault Ste. Marie.

Held Little Hope
They held little hope for the captain and his companions. If the party succeeded in reaching Lizard Island they may find huts there, but while games was plentiful they have no weapons.

SANTA CLAUS WILL ENTER CITY ON FRIDAY; GOODFELLOWS MAKE READY

The Goodfellows of Bismarck are busy on their plans for the big Community Christmas, and they intend there shall be no such mournful face in Bismarck as is shown in the photograph.

There will be four, and probably five, lodge and other organizations co-operating in the big affair, which will culminate with big tree and program or boys and girls on Tuesday, December 26, either in the Auditorium or Rialto theater.

The plans call for a committee from each organization to handle the matter. A sub-committee of probably three will call upon each of about 30 families and leave a lot of good things. The organizations will furnish candy for the Christmas tree on Dec. 26.

CONFERENCE AT LAUSANNE IN FIFTH WEEK

Lausanne, Dec. 18.—The Near East conference entered its fifth week today with three of its biggest problems still unsolved but with the sub-committee to which they have been entrusted making every effort to reach settlements.

Difficulties over the control of the Mosul oil regions, the questions of deporting the Greek patriarch, and the status of the Turkish capitulations, have caused the conference many an anxious moment and their final settlement still is hanging fire.

On the other side of the ledger, the delegations believe that they virtually have disposed of the perplexing question of the Dardanelles and that they have overcome many of the obstacles in the way of a solution of the minorities problem.

The conference has taken a fresh supply of optimism from the reports that America is considering lending her assistance to the economic rehabilitation of Europe.

Turkey formally engaged today before the Near East conference in accord the Christian minorities, in all that concerns their life and liberty, the same rights and the same protection as are enjoyed by the Turkish population, with the free exercise of their religion and the right to establish educational, charitable and religious institutions.

OFFERS STRAITS PLAN
Lausanne, Dec. 18.—Foreign Minister Tchitcherine of Russia proposed today to the Near East conference commission studying the status of the Turkish straits a plan providing for an international board of control on which would be represented Germany, the United States, France, England, Italy and all the states bordering on the Black sea.

MUSSOLINI NEVER MISSES HIS FENCING

Rome, Dec. 18.—Premier Mussolini, despite the great amount of work before him, and the long hours he spends each day at his desk, finds time every morning to indulge in his favorite pastime of fencing. For one hour after breakfast he crosses swords with a famous professor, and only a few days ago when his companion, tired from his exertions, showed signs of faltering, Mussolini took on the professor's assistants for the remainder of the hour.

He is one of the best amateur swordsmen of Italy, and has fought innumerable duels in which there is no record of his ever coming out second best.

President Wants to Get Viewpoint of Various States
On Issue

Washington, Dec. 18.—Problems of prohibition enforcement were for discussion at a White House luncheon conference today between President Harding and state governors, 16 of whom had accepted the President's invitation to attend.

Originally planning to call a conference of governors here on the prohibition question some time next month, the President advanced the date primarily because of the proximity to the capital at this time of so many who have been in attendance at the governor's conference at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Although advancing the date of the conference means that a number of governor's participating will go out of office shortly after, the President was said to have decided upon it in order to obtain the view of those who have had the experience of the past two years in dealing with prohibition question.

It was believed in administration circles another conference will be necessary after first of the year because of the change in state administrations and the views developed at this conference thus will be available to the executives taking part in a later one.

STATE VICTOR IN SUIT FOR LUMBER PROFIT

Jury Returns Verdict, Failing To award Plaintiff Company Any Amount

Verdict for the defendant was rendered in the case tried in district court here in which the Burkholder Lumber company of Minneapolis sought to collect more than $72,000 and interest from the North Dakota Home Building association, for alleged breach of contract, the jury returning its verdict Sunday morning about 10 o'clock. The jury retired at 5 o'clock Saturday evening, and the first ballot stood 10 to 2 for the association, it was learned.

Attorney General-elect George Shafer, who presented the state's argument, called the former purchasing agent for the Home Building association a "high priest of skull duggery" and severely condemned his action while in the employ of the Home Building association. He denied liability of the state in the case, asserting that there was no breach of contract and that Pollard lacked the authority to make the contracts the plaintiff lumber company alleged he made.

The two big claims involved were for alleged loss of profits due to failure of the association to fulfill a contract of May 12, 1920, and another of Sept. 18, 1920, for a total of more than six million feet of lumber and other material. On the first the Burkholder company asked $18,000 and on the second, $53,000.

While Pollard executed a contract on May 12, 1920, Mr. Shafer declared he did not have authority to do so, and that Manager Blakemore never learned of the action until the Burkholder company made a claim some months later. He also denied that the contract of Sept. 18 was valid, and asserted again that Pollard had no authority to make it.

F. O. Hellstrom and William Langner, representing the plaintiff, asserted the records showed the Burkholder company had acted in good faith, suffered actual loss and should be compensated if the state of North Dakota was to do business on a fair basis.

Mr. Hellstrom said the case would go to the supreme court.

F. E. Diehl today said his remarks concerning profits shown on the Burkholder contracts had been misunderstood. While he said they were high, he did not believe they ran above $20 a thousand on any contract.

SEE PLOT TO SMUGGLE IN MUCH WINE

Federal Prohibition Agents
Seize Heavy Correspondence

Minneapolis, Dec. 18.—Federal prohibition agents today seized several files of Hungarian correspondence in their investigation of an alleged plot to smuggle large quantities of wines from Hungary to the United States or distribution in the northwest.

The Hungarian correspondence will be turned over to University language instructors for translation, Maurice Silverman, assistant to H. L. Duncan, prohibition director for the northwest, said this morning, and may shed new light in what is believed to be the largest plot to market contraband liquor ever uncovered in the northwest.

Scores of letters written in Hungarian were seized by prohibition agents when they raided Stoyka's Cafe, St. Paul, with a search warrant based on information furnished by Julius Arbocz, former official of Stoyka's Foods, Inc., who exposed the alleged plot a prohibition headquarters in New York.

William Bauer, attorney for John Stoyka has denied the story told by Arbocz in New York.

The work has been broadened to take the entire building into consideration and a very great transformation has been effected in the structure.

Lineoleum on the main floor, with the material taken up there being worked up to fit the places on the upper floor has made the flooring effect far better. The hallways have been redecorated throughout, and the woodwork of the stairways is being given a coat of varnish.

The rooms assigned to the State Treasurer and the Superintendent of Public Instruction have been redecorated, this being necessitated by breaks in the plaster of the ceiling.

(By the Associated Press)
Warsaw, Dec. 18.—Martial law became effective in Warsaw today by proclamation of the cabinet.

Captain Niewodowski, the crazed artist who assassinated President Narutowicz last Saturday, has been held for trial by court martial.

At his preliminary examination he declared he had been actuated by his own initiative on shooting the President and that he had no accomplices.

The declaration of martial law has added to the sense of security felt by the people, who with General Joseph Pilsudski established as chief of staff of the army, and General Sikorski as premier, await the convening of parliament on Wednesday for the election of new premier. One of the first acts of Sikorski in taking over the premiership was to order the arrest of several of the former soldiers of General Haller whose influence in the army has been capitalized by the nationalists in their opposition to General Pilsudski.

Many other persons are also in custody pending a complete investigation of the assassination. Among those detained is Col. Antoni Modelski, once adjutant to General Haller.

Ironwood, Mich., Dec. 16.—Announcement was made today by Ogilby, Norton and Co., that 75 modern homes will be erected next spring at Montreal, two miles west of Hurley, Wis., at an approximate cost of $400,000. The new location will be patterned after the one at Ramsey, Michigan, near here, where 75 homes are under construction. The project is said to set a precedent in housing in the Lake Superior ore mining district.

In announcing the new location the mining company officials said the result will be a better class of labor, reduction in turnover and that a steady class of workmen will decrease accidents, thereby compensating the company for enormous expenditures.

It was one below yesterday.

The weather bureau reported the cold wave had a general southeasterly trend across the middle states and would be followed by a slowly rising temperature today for the upper and middle Mississippi region, west of that stream, and tomorrow for the great lakes region and the Ohio valley.

Havre, Montana last night was gripped by 32 below weather. Other towns in the northwest registered readings from 4 to 28 degrees below.

BANDIT RAID AT DOOR OF DENVER MINT

Guard Shot, Probably Fatally,
As Party Takes Fortune
From Truck

RACE THROUGH CITY

Entire Shipment From Federal Reserve Bank Is Loot of Robbers

(By the Associated Press)
Denver, Colo., Dec. 18.—Three bandits shot and probably fatally wounded Charles Linton, a federal reserve bank guard and escaped with about $200,000 in currency of $5 denomination which was being loaded on to a federal reserve truck in front of the Denver mint. The funds were being transferred from the mint to the local federal reserve bank.

The robbers seized the currency and sprang into a large automobile. As their car sped away armed government guards inside the mint building fired from the windows of the mint at the robbers.

The entire Denver police force quickly was called into action in an effort to apprehend the robbers.

The robbery occurred at 10:40 o'clock, a few minutes after the government employees had begun to load the currency into the federal reserve truck.

Robbers Masked.
While the loading was in progress an automobile drew up in front of the mint building. Three masked robbers sprang from it. Before government employees knew what happened, the bandits opened fire from high powered rifles.

Havenor fell at the first fusillade. The government employees returned the first but the robbers acted quickly, sprang to the motor truck, grabbed the bags of money and fled. While the robbery was going on, according to witnesses, a second automobile, touring car loaded with masked men, armed with shot guns and rifles, stood 20 feet from the bandits' car apparently ready to give aid should the bandits need assistance.

Sheriffs in nearby counties were quickly notified by the local police in an effort to apprehend the robbers.

The holdup occurred on West Colfax avenue.

Worked Quickly.
So quickly did the bandits worked that persons with riot guns and an extensive search of the hospitals of Denver and suburbs is under way in an effort to locate the bandit who is believed to have been shot as he was entering the waiting automobile. All roads out of Denver were guarded and word of the holdup was sent to all outside counties. The car bore a Colorado license number 81,001.

Property of Reserve Bank.
The money was the property of the Federal Reserve Bank and was being transferred from the main bank office here for distribution to Denver, Colorado and Wyoming banks, according to R. J. Grant, director of the mine.

The funds of the reserve bank are held in vaults at the mint for the bank because of the lack of secure bank vaults in the headquarters of the bank. It is released to the bank on instructions from the secretary of the treasury. The time for transferring of the money is very irregular, according to Director Grant, some times three or four releases being made in a week and then again no money being released over a period of two weeks.

Official Announcement.
At 11:30 a. m. R. J. Grant, director of the mint, announced officially that the bandits had escaped with the entire consignment of $200,000 for the Denver Federal Reserve Bank. Director Grant said that the money was in fifty sacks containing $4,000 each. It was in denomination of $5, all in currency.

Weather bureau prophets predicted with conviction that this winter would be no winter before the year had followed the ground. While two months ago, the number who predicted a very mild winter was small, the first of the year at least, cannot be found now.

Records show that Old Man Winter, who has been in the Northwest for a long time, is moving on. Only a few days ago, the weather bureau's records for this date, they were in the valley, showing to have been in 1919 when the temperature had considerably lower than in the present winter.

SECOND WEEK OF MINE RIOT TRIAL RESUMES

(By the Associated Press) Marion, Ill., Dec. 18.—With the opening of the second week of the trial of five defendants charged with murder in connection with the Heroin riots, the state today prepared to present evidence regarding the slaying of C. K. McDowell, foreman of the Strip mine around which the riots centered.

George Nelson, a farmer residing in the vicinity of the Strip mine, attorneys for the state announced, would be the first witness called to describe the killing.

Scores of witnesses for the defense were questioned yesterday by the miners attorneys, who have asserted they will seek to impeach the testimony offered for the state.

During the week, survivors of the riots will be called to testify. They have been guarded by federal authorities since their arrival.

"There have been many reports of intimidation of witnesses," C. W. Middlekauff, assistant prosecuting attorney, announced. "One man stated that he had been warned. Another reported that he has a brother who looks much like him and that a few nights ago when this brother went to the barn a shot was heard and a bullet passed close to his head."

KING'S GARRISON RETURNS HOME FROM IRELAND

Dublin, Dec. 18.—The Union Jack and the authority it symbolized in Ireland for so many years had gone back to Britain today with the last of the British soldiers occupying the Dublin area, and its place over the military posts of this city floated the tri-color of the Irish Free State.

The departure of the King's garrison and the installation of the Free State troops was accomplished with good will. Sunday crowds, cheering enthusiastically, watched the British march to the docks. Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense of the Free State government, assaulted the British colors as they came down for the last time.

MAN WANTED IN BLOOMINGTON MISSING AGAIN

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 18.—Edward J. Leman, Bloomington dairy man of reputed wealth, has disappeared again after he learned police were about to serve a warrant for cashing spurious checks amounting to $450 at Peoria, Illinois.

Leman disappeared some months ago leaving his car on a road near Bloomington, suggestive of four-play. He was found in North Dakota after a long search and returned here by government officials.

GIRL DRINKS LYSOL BUT WILL RECOVER

Fargo Business College Student Goes to Friends Room And Tries Suicide

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 18.—Twenty-year-old Augusta Krenelka of Kenmare, N. D., today is in a Fargo hospital recovering from the effects of an apparent attempt to commit suicide. Miss Krenelka is a student at a business college here.

According to James Moreau, also a student at the school, Miss Krenelka called at the home where he is rooming and, when he opened the door, asked her what she wanted. She had been missing nearly an hour.

Moreau had known the girl for a number of years he said, but had never been in love with him, as far as he knew. He said he had taken her to picture shows a few times and, when they were at Kenmare, to dances. Miss Krenelka is a typical northern European type, with blond bobbed hair. She is, in her way, attractive. According to school authorities she is very emotional. She has been a student at the school for about two weeks.

Moreau he said, followed her a few steps and then went back after his hat and coat, but was unable to find her when he reappeared. A searching party was quickly formed to scout the neighborhood. She was found an hour later at the home of E. A. Lundstrom, at whose doorstep she had fallen, apparently exhausted. She was taken inside, where she was found a few minutes later by the police who immediately rushed her to the hospital. How long she wandered about on the coldest night of the season, is not known. She had been missing nearly an hour.

Judge That Tried Thaw Is Dead

New York, Dec. 18.—James Fitzgerald, former justice of the state supreme court, who presided at the first trial of Harry Kendall Thaw for the murder of Stanford White in 1907, died at his home here last night at the age of 71. He had been in ill health for several years, his retirement ten years ago being forced by a nervous breakdown attributed to the strain he underwent at the Thaw trial.

29 FARMS OUT OF 126 SHOWED PROFIT, REPORT

Survey Conducted by Rex Willard of Agricultural College Is Announced

WHEAT HEADS LIST

Eleven Year Records for Yield Of Wheat Show Cass and Pembina Counties Lead

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 18.—Figures from 126 farms in North Dakota showing what products and operating methods proved most profitable to these farmers in 1921 were sent out yesterday in Bulletin 165 by the North Dakota Agricultural College. It is for the most part a result of the work of the 126 farmers in all sections of the state, county agents and the farm economics department of the college headed by Rex Willard. In some cases more than one year is covered in the records.

Facts brought out by the figures include:

That only 29 of the farms made a profit while 97 of them lost money. Average net loss was $848 or 2.8 percent on the investment.

Wheat produced 25 percent of the state farm income.

Eleven year records for yield of wheat showed Cass and Pembina leading with Walsh, Grand Forks and Towner closely following.

The greatest proportional investment was in land of the Red River Valley and Central North Dakota, a relatively higher investment was in stock in Northwest and Southwest North Dakota. (The state was divided into these four sections for the purpose of the survey).

Wheat occupied 29 percent of the crop area of the state with hay, oats, corn and barley next in importance.

Operating Expenses

Operating expenses per farm were $3,810. Threshing twice taxes, in interest, etc., were 20 percent of the hired labor 12 percent and machinery depreciation approximately 10 percent. The distribution of costs from highest to lowest were as follows:

Miscellaneous, $788; management, $710; the farmer's own labor, $404; hired labor, $450; machinery depreciation $369; family labor $353; taxes $237; machinery repair $192; building depreciation $151; feed $108; interest personal property $91; dwelling depreciation $67.

While wheat which averaged 25 percent of the income of the state on the average, led as the income producer it was displaced in the Southwest where it was only 4 percent while dairy products ranked highest there.

In general the cost per acre of producing crops was highest in the Red River Valley and lowest in the west the Northwest being higher than the Southwest. The cost per unit, however, highest in the southwest because of lower yields.

Average annual cost operating automobile for farm uses on 144 farms was $231.

The average cost of keeping work horses was $74 per head; sheep (on 24 farms) $6.50 per ewe, cattle $73 per head (ranging from $115 in the Valley to $62 on the Slope. For the cattle feed was 40 percent of the cost.

Horse Used 78 Days

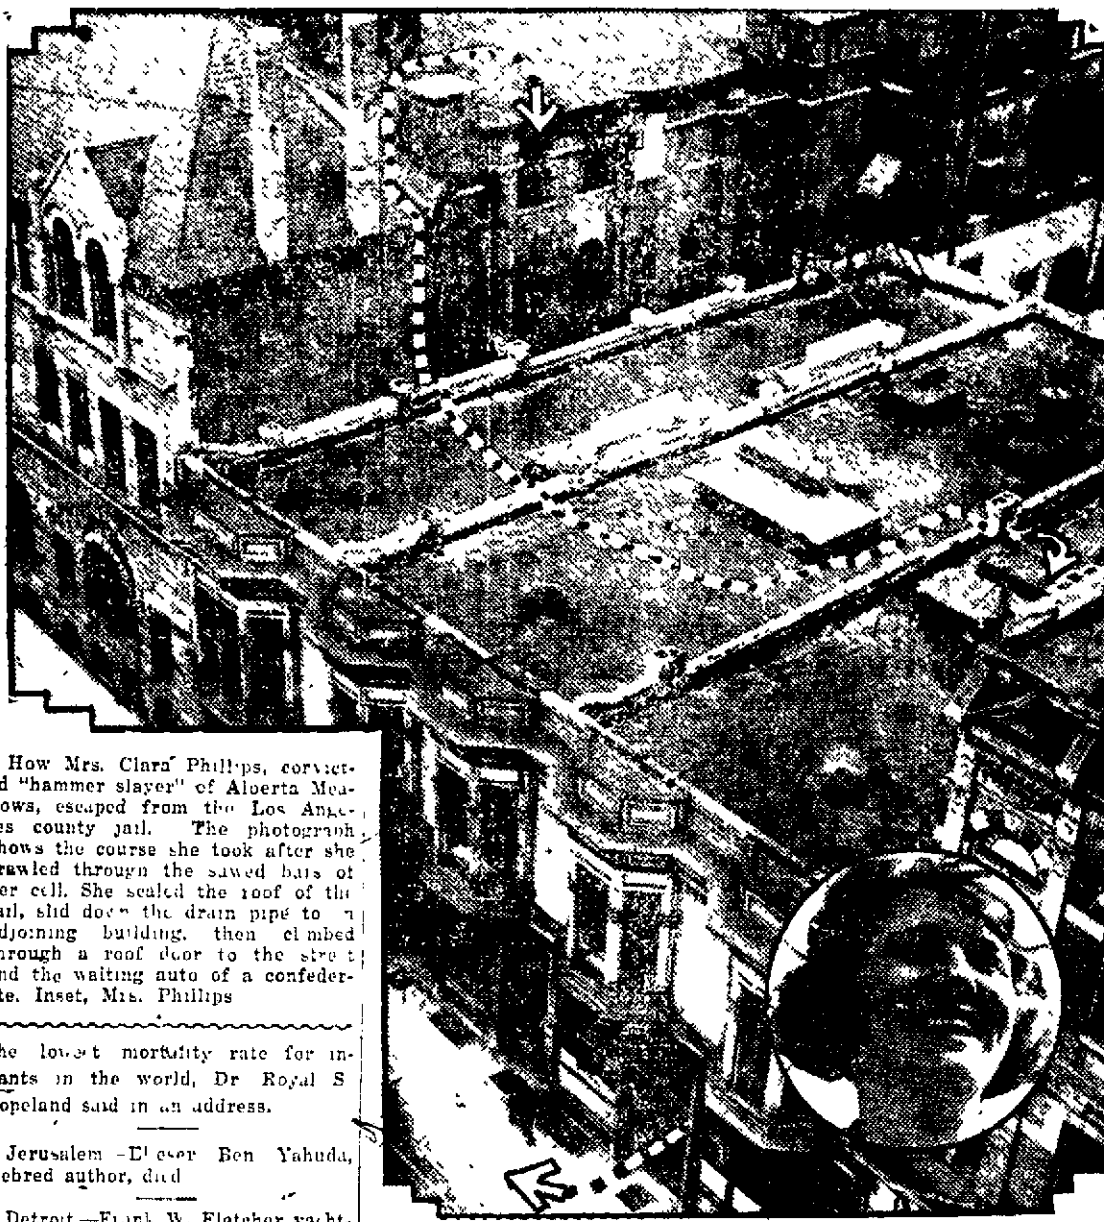

The average work horse was used 78 days at productive work in 1921. The tractors on 29 farms were used 29 days on the average. Tractor cost for plowing was $1.98 per acre and horse plowing cost 92 cents an acre.

Farms using tractors lost 408 more money than those not using them. The value of food furnished by the farm to the household averaged $24 per farm. The average cost of food eaten by members of the farmers families was $12.91 a month ranging from $10.56 in small families to $10.61 in big ones. Food eaten represented 15 percent of the gross farm income, in 1921.

Where farmers sold enough dairy products to make 18 percent of this gross income they averaged $341 more profit than those who sold only enough dairy stuff to make up 4 percent of their net income. In five years the average amount of damage to wheat was 56 percent of a normal crop. Of this drought caused 20 percent of the loss and rust only 10 percent, and hot winds seven percent.

Potato damage 28 percent; drought 26 percent, potato bugs five percent, and hot winds only one percent.

Duluth, Dec. 18.—The local United States naval radio station at 1 a. m. today picked up parts of a wireless message believed to have been broadcast from Cleveland, Ohio, advising of the distress of a ship on Lake Superior. Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 18.—The wrecking tug Favorite left Whitefish Bay, Lake Superior, early today for Lizard Island to continue the search for 27 persons missing from the tug Reliance since last Wednesday, according to wireless advices received here today by H. RECOVER FROM COLD
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 18.—The tug Gray, searching for the 7 persons missing since the tug Reliance crashed on the rocks of Lizard Island last Wednesday, reached the scene of the wreck this morning and found two returned and battered lifeboats but no sign of the missing persons.

Word of the Gray's arrival at the scene of the wreck was received by wireless from the tug, which added that the temperature was below zero.

Seven survivors of the wreck, which occurred when the storm-driven Reliance, owned by the Superior Paper Company, stripped her hull on the rocks, were recovering here today from exposure after being driven in a small boat to the Canadian mainland. Two others, Mr. and Mrs. John Harten, cooks, were reported in a serious condition at a railway station of the Algoma Central railroad.

HUGE INCREASE IS SHOWN IN DAIRY PRODUCTS IN THE SLOPE TERRITORY IN SHORT PERIOD OF FIVE YEARS

Value of Butterfat and Cream Sold Rises to More Than $2,601,245 in 1921 in 19 Counties in Southwestern Part of the State

MORE MANUFACTURING

The dairy industry, in its infancy on the Missouri Slope a few years ago, has risen so rapidly that in 1921 a total of $2,601,245 was paid to producers in 19 southwestern counties for butterfat. These records, from the office of the state dairy commissioner, are admittedly too low in that it is impossible to get also the complete record of cream shipped by former creameries outside the state. The average for these counties is proportionately higher than for the entire state.

The sales of 1921, of over two and a half million dollars, are contrasted with sales of $739,869.05 reported for the year 1916 by the dairy commissioner, representing an increase in the dairy output in the counties in five years of 220 percent.

The cold statistics of the state official sources are more convincing than any yet given about the dairy industry in the Missouri Slope counties. The counties included are: Adams, Billings, Bowman, Burleigh, Dunn, Emmons, Golden Valley, Grant, Hettinger, Kidder, Logan, McIntosh, McLean, Mercer, Morton, Oliver, Sioux, Stark, Slope.

The value of butterfat marketed through cream stations for the years 1916 and 1921, as given in official figures, follows:

County	Year 1916	Year 1921
Adams	$ 17,769	$107,793
Billings	3,293	11,615
Bowman	30,342	82,547
Burleigh	96,474	129,284
Dunn	658	100,370
Emmons	134,342	269,574
Grant	207,012	207,012
Hettinger	22,630	190,710
Kidder	16,249	135,475
Logan	82,559	153,670
McIntosh	181,807	344,783
McLean	34,627	203,716
Mercer	49,064	150,514
Morton	127,761	287,927
Oliver	21,318	16,010
Sioux	14,826	14,826
Slope	17,615	17,615
Stark	21,318	181,399

Tendency in Manufacture
The production for the year 1922, ending on June 30, 1922, was $2,475,204, a decrease from the previous year which was chiefly due to decline in price of butterfat.

A study of records discloses that during the last several years there has, however, been a decrease in the number of creameries. The tendency apparently has been toward a smaller number of creameries with a larger output, this being the most economical method of production. There is no place in which butter can be so well manufactured as close to the source of production.

Theoretically the farmer should make better butter than anyone. The tendency, however, is toward manufacture by the creameries. There were 80 creameries in the state in 1915 and only 50 in 1922.

While a great deal of the butterfat produced in the Slope counties was manufactured into butter on the Slope the greater part of it went to creameries outside the state. The records of the dairy commissioner, however, show that the value of butter manufactured in the Slope counties for last year was $1,280,929.05.

The manufacture of butter by creameries for the years 1916 and 1921, as far as is available, is shown as follows:

	1916	1921
Adams	$ 524.28
Burleigh	104,858.66	$680,025.95
Bowman	11,329.74	7,984.00
Emmons	19,626.63	20,299.76
McLean	25,281.46	22,041.00
Morton	216,247.21	430,523.50
Logan	3,797.92
Mercer	13,476.71
Oliver	13,476.71
Stark	35,108.28	73,903.00
Dunn		5,400.00

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

REAL DEMON

What is it, in your life, that you fear or dread most? And how much effect is this fear or dread having on your health, fortunes, state of mind and general happiness?

Along this line, you will be interested in a peculiar case that has been perplexing the Workmen's Compensation Commission of New York state.

In a hat factory some of the employees got mercurial poisoning from handling dyes. One of the workers who became ill and had to hunt another job asked the commission for money to cover the loss of several weeks' pay.

A medical specialist, testifying at the hearing, says that this particular employee's illness was due to fear, not to poisoning. That is, seeing his fellow-workers become ill, he grew afraid that he also might get poisoned, and worried himself into neurosis, a nervous condition in which the patient often imagines that he has a physical illness—in this case, poisoning.

Fear, under various terrifying scientific names, in the last few years since the war ended, has become a common disease. Wherever a group of physicians get together they begin talking about this pandemic of nervous apprehension.

Doctors' offices are crowded with people—fearing that their hearts are about to stop beating, that they are on the verge of a nervous breakdown, that an annoying acid condition of the stomach may be stealthily advancing cancer.

Probably three-fourths of these maladies are imaginary. They are, fortunately, making people realize the mind's vast power over the body, for good or bad.

Basil King's book, "The Conquest of Fear," suggests that most of the world's troubles these days are due to the demon, FEAR.

"There is not a government which is not afraid of some other government. There is not a government which is not afraid of its own people. There is not a people which is not afraid of its own government. There is not a country in which one group is not afraid of some other group. All is rivalry, enmity, suspicion, confusion and distrust, while men's hearts are fainting for fear and for anxious expectation of what is coming on the world."

Fear (apprehension combined with distrust) leads to double-crossing. And double-crossing reacts in vengeance.

There can be no happiness for individuals or nations until we rise in our might and slay the demon, FEAR.

COMING BACK

Doughboys, who remember the terrific devastation they saw in France, will be especially interested to learn that France is steadily getting the damages repaired.

It is important news to all of us, that France is more than halfway back to normal. Why important? Because our prosperity depends to considerable extent on Europe's come-back. And France is as much a key nation, as Germany, to the general European situation.

For instance, 741,883 buildings in France were destroyed or suffered serious damage. The French government reports that nearly 500,000 of these buildings had been rebuilt by September 1, the date of the last check-up. Later figures are not available, since it takes several months to round up the information.

And, of the 22,900 French factories destroyed in the war, 20,000 had been rebuilt September 1.

About 5,000,000 acres of French farming land was rendered unfit for cultivation by battles. Nearly 4,400,000 acres of these have been cleared of shells, leveled and again are bearing crops.

The war trenches totaled 436,230,000 cubic yards of earth excavated, and about 365,000,000 cubic yards of have been filled in.

Barbed wire entanglements at the close of the war totaled 446,108,000 square yards. Doughboys wondered how the French would ever manage to coil the wire. Well, 341,000,000 square yards of wire entanglements have been coiled and removed.

And over a million abandoned shells have been gathered up and destroyed or stored.

"France loafing on the job?" That's ridiculous. The French have been as active as ants, at repairing the damages of war.

Damages in the French devastated regions, according to French officials estimates, totaled 102,000,000,000 francs. France has spent 40,000,000,000 francs repairing the damages, and on this account Germany has paid 4,000,000,000 francs. These are the French government's figures.

The devastation of France, as revealed by these statistics, if we had similar destruction in America, no doubt we'd be foaming at the mouth and generally acting emotionally in a way that other countries would find hard to understand. All this must be kept in mind, in judging the present French attitude.

FISH

A large-mouth bass weighing 18 pounds 8 ounces was caught by O. C. Donehey, in Lake Serpentine, Fla. Largest on record.

This may not seem important to you, but to at least 2,000,000 Americans it is the most interesting happening for months. A chronic angler would trade a few years of his life to catch a bass of that size, particularly a small-mouth-black.

Considering the different things that different people are interested in, it's easy to understand why it's so difficult to get a general agreement on anything.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

CARRYING WHEAT OVER

A good many months ago The Herald published a tabe compiled from government records of wheat prices on the Chicago market for a period of some 22 years. The statement had often been made that wheat is always low in the fall when the bulk of the marketing is done, and high the following spring. These alleged facts are explained on the ground that speculators force down the price in the fall, and load up with cheap wheat, and then unload after they have forced prices up in the spring.

These statements did not accord with The Herald's observation of the trend of prices, but there was available no official compilation which could be accepted as authoritative. Official figures were obtained, compiled and compared, and it was found that the man who had held his wheat year after year until spring, and then sold it, would have received about 4 cents per bushel less if he had sold in the fall. Out of this 4 cents he would have had to provide for storage charges, interest charges and shrinkage. In some years he would have made a good profit. In other years he would have sustained a loss. But one year with another it would have paid him better to sell his wheat in the fall.

The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce has just issued a bulletin dealing with the same subject. Two grades of wheat are discussed, No. 1 Northern for the four fall months and the four following spring months for the year 1885 to 1914 inclusive. The war years and the years following the war are not included because of the erratic behavior of the market in those years because of war conditions.

The Minneapolis tabulation shows substantially what The Herald's tabulation showed months ago. For the years cited the average fall price for No. 1 Northern 4.25 cents, and for No. 2 Northern 4.32 cents.

The correspondence between the two tabulations is striking. Inasmuch as they cover different years and are made for different markets. They disprove completely one of the pet theories of stump speakers of a certain class nevertheless, the theory will persist, and it will serve to do duty in many a campaign—Grand Forks Herald.

HORSE AND MOTOR.

The annual plea for re-instatement of the horse was recently made at the meeting in Chicago of the Horse Association of America. The announcement that there are still thousands of horses in daily use on the streets of Chicago—and undoubtedly the situation is similar in other cities—offered as proof that the horse is coming back, partly since the war. The breeding of the horse was urged; the present market is said to be far under-supplied.

Somehow this all leaves the average reader uninterested. Not many persons have the impulse to start a crusade in behalf of the return of the horse to city streets and country by-ways.

Nevertheless, it does no harm to recognize that this animal still has his uses and his friends. The automobile and motor truck and even the flying machine have been found to do much of the horse's work more cleanly, swiftly and economically. But there remain certain jobs which man's faithful beast of burden still performs more satisfactorily than any modern bit of machinery.

So long as there are such tasks to be performed, so long as there are pleasure and service to be derived from their existence, there will be horses. Only, there isn't any real use in trying to push the motor vehicle into the background in order to restore the horse to its former position of prominence.—Minor Daily News.

TRAFFIC IN OUR CITIES

The traffic situation in the cities of America during the last few years is presenting the most serious problem that city governments have ever been called upon to face.

Cities have attempted to meet the problem in various ways. Traffic policemen have been employed, parking zones have been designated, new rules have been laid down when it appeared that necessity required.

But with the ever increasing use of the automobile congestion has likewise increased. And consequently the problem is still with us.

An article in "The American City" of recent issue, very pertinently asks: "Shall our city thoroughfares be highways or garages?"

After discussing the usual methods of handling the traffic situation, methods which have been tried in every American city, the article makes a plea for public parking spaces. It says that these parking spaces should be acquired at strategic points where the "half days" and "all days" could be parked without entering and congesting the business district.

This is a very wise suggestion of the possible way the traffic situation in the cities will eventually have to be handled. But whether it is in this way or some other, it is certain that a solution will have to be found. It is the big problem in city management today.—Fargo Forum

COMPETITION AMONG BUYERS
"An unusually keen competition for cream prevailed, especially between merchant buyers," says a report of the dairy commission for the past year. "This became even more pronounced in the case of cash. It caused a number of such merchants to take out licenses to buy under contract. This permitted them to adjust their prices to suit themselves which they frequently did by offering higher prices, payable in trade, than was quoted by line companies to their agents and payable by check. Competition between towns frequently arose, especially so in towns adjacent to creameries where a delivered price higher than prevailed at adjacent points where cream was sold to agents and required shipment as well as station costs."

BISMARCK AND THE FUTURE

Editor's Note: This is the third prize winning essay in the contest conducted by The Tribune—it is by S. O. Le Barron.

Engineers can build a great bridge spanning a mighty stream, so strong that lines of heavy trucks may pass with scarcely a tremor, yet a hundred men trained to march in perfect step are asked to break step when passing over for fear of rocking the bridge to destruction, and so it is with Bismarck, if we are to accomplish big things we must have unity of action. We make much of the Red Trail and the number of tourists, we provide a camp with conveniences, and that is good, but what we need are trails leading to, rather than through Bismarck, with conveniences which will keep people here, or make them want to come again. We must look to the roads for we have a very large territory, naturally tributary to Bismarck and we must develop this if our city is to grow. We have a fine physical townsite, natural drainage, good soil as shown by the trees and shrubs already grown, so it is an attractive city for homes. We need more dwellings, both private and apartment houses. Our schools, business college, churches, hospitals and hotels are among the best, but must keep a little ahead of the growth of the city if we are to get more people here to live. Honest advertising backed by all the residents of the city and surrounding country will bring us more wholesome houses, will help our already good reputation as a distributing point of seed and nursery stock, and this means real profit to our farmers. We want a starch factory so our farmers need never sell potatoes at a loss.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The next house the Twins went to was the Weston's.

Nancy and Nick, you know, were out collecting notes for Santa Claus. They would light on a snowy roof like two little birds, and Nick would hustle down the dark chimney while Nancy watched overhead for Tweedledee, the naughty gnome who liked to steal the notes.

"Here are two of them," whispered Nick when he had scrambled down. Nancy could just hear.

She stopped watching and helped Nick to scramble up, looking as grimly as the Chimney Sweep himself.

Now it isn't nice to read other people's letters, but it was different with Nancy and Nick. Santa Claus told them to be sure to read each letter, as they found it, so that if anything happened—and it got very hot when they were down there—they could remember some of the things. At least, and Tommy or Dicky or Harry, or Suzy or Jane wouldn't be left altogether without things on Christmas morning.

So Nick opened one of the letters and read:

"Dear Santa Klaus:
"I want a drum and a horn and a soldier suit and an organ and a baseball and an air gun, and a tunnel and a wife and a tin bug. I hope you are well."

"Humph!" declared Nancy. "They're funny things for a girl to want. She never said a word about a doll."

"Oh, listen!" cried Nick. "Here's the other note," and he read:

"Dear Santa,
"Please, sir, I want a doll and a baby buggy and a kitchen cabinet and a new muff and a toy piano and a bracelet."

"Goodness!" scoffed Nick. "A boy wanting things like that!"

Nancy took the notes and looked at them. "Somebody's rubbed the names out and changed them," she said quickly. "I'll bet you anything it was Tweedledee—the little rascal."

And so it was, my dears.

Nancy fixed the mistakes at once.

THANKS TRIBUNE

Editor,
Bismarck Tribune:
At the meeting of the Official Board of the McCabe Methodist Episcopal Church we were appointed as a committee to express to you our sincere thanks for the courtesies extended to us by you and your paper during our revival meeting, November 18th to December 10th, and to especially express our appreciation for the valuable space granted us during this time and to thank you for the excellent location given and the very graceful wording and freedom from sensationalism extended by your headline writer.

(Dr. Bennett, the evangelist, said to us that better treatment at the hands of the press he had never known. And while he is not here to join us in our thanks, we know that he approves of them.)

plant located at the coal mines. We want to be on the air mail, passenger and freight lines which will soon cross the northern part of the United States. We should be leaders in developing radio both for the city and country around. The city water question may be easily settled if we but march together. Unjust freight rates may be corrected. We want parks and playgrounds, and should not while land is selling below value. Winter sports in the hills northwest of the city are possible, as is also a wonderful park with scenic drives, on the river bottom and along the hills. We need Federal and State experiment farms, we should try to get the proposed model children's city of the Yeomen Brotherhood. We have the machinery for all of this in our Association of Commerce, our Rotary, church societies, boy and girl scout troops, and kindred organizations, if we but march in unison. A scientist has told us that by placing a bass violin in each room of the Woolworth building in New York, all tuned to a certain pitch, sit in a room across the street and wreck the greatest building of steel and concrete. So let us tune our voices to one pitch, time our actions to one perfect step, and without a halt clear all obstacles from a path leading straight to a population of twenty thousand in nineteen hundred and thirty-two.

PICTURESQUE CHARACTER PASSED WITH DEATH OF MAJOR LACEY

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 18.—Indiana lost one of its most famous characters with the passing on November 11 of Major M. M. Lacey of Fountain City.

Slave smuggler, veteran of the Civil War, chief of police in Richmond, lawyer and a leader in public affairs, Major Lacey led a most wonderful and exciting life.

His opposition to slavery developed when he was a child living in Mountain City and at the age of eleven years he was one of the "conductors" of the underground railway system, which smuggled runaway slaves from the Ohio river to Canada.

A brother of Major Lacey is said to have assisted Eliza Harris, the original from whom the famous character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was adapted, across the Ohio river to Ripley, and then to Fountain City.

Major Lacey's work in connection with the "underground railway" was to help conduct negroes who had been brought to Levi Coffin's home in Fountain City, to the next station of the system. The Grand Central Station of the system, as Coffin's home was called, was used as a hiding place for approximately three thousand slaves who passed through to the northward, it has been estimated.

The outbreak of the Civil War ended Major Lacey's career as a slave runner, for he immediately enlisted in the Union Army. In 1866 he was commissioned a major in the 6th Indiana Infantry. Following the termination of the struggle, Major Lacey made his home in Richmond, where he served as chief of police from 1869 to 1873. He then went to Washington where he practiced law for some time.

Major Lacey spent his last years at Fountain City. He was senior vice-commander of the loyal Legion, and a member of the Vicksburg Military Park commission under Governor W. T. Durbill and Governor J. F. Hanley. He was eighty-seven years old when he died.

Large Attendance Proves Success of Sacred Concert

The sacred concert given by the members of the Thursday Musical club yesterday afternoon at the Eltinge Theatre under the auspices of the Woman's Community Council was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. The program was well balanced, being composed of solo selections, vocal duets, quartettes and choruses.

Those attending reported that Bismarck was fortunate indeed in possessing such an abundance of artistic talent. The ladies taking part showed genuine musical ability and their rendition of classical sacred music of intricate technique in a thoroughly masterful way. The musical ability of the men was ably sustained by Mr. Humphries and Mr. Halverson.

The beautiful singing was greatly enhanced by the rare taste shown by the accompanists in interpreting the instrumental side of the selections. The organ numbers played with the artistic expression shown in all Mr. Wagner's playing occupied an important place in the afternoon's entertainment.

A total of $48.48 was taken up at the conclusion of the program to help swell the school milk fund which the members of the Community Council provide during the winter months for the purchase of milk for children who cannot afford to pay for it.

Members of the Thursday Musical club and the Community Council said that they wished to express their appreciation to St. Simon for the privilege of using the theater for their concert. To Mr. Wagner for his able assistance in making the program so complete by his rare musical talent, and the cooperation of the people of Bismarck in making the concert a success.

PRIZE CANNERS, KATHRYN BOLIBAUGH, ABOVE, AND BEULAH RODGERS.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—A trip to France—guests of the American Committee for Devastated France—because they are the best club cannery in the United States!

That is the prize awarded to four girls, two from Iowa and two from Colorado, winner in the national canning club contests just completed here in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition.

First place in the contests was awarded to the Iowa team, Beulah Rodger, 16, and Kathryn Bolibaugh, 17, both from Eddyville, Ia. The Colorado team, which won second place, and will accompany the Iowa girls to France, consists of Bertha Rogers, 18, and Elaine Hendrickson, 17, both of Burlington.

They go to France next summer to demonstrate modern American food canning practices there.

Nine teams, composed of two girls each, engaged in the eliminating canning finals here during the meet. Out of the north, east, west and south they came, as veritable feminine knights of the farm kitchens, garbed with powers plenipotentiary to show the waiting world just what goes on behind the scenes of American agriculture.

State and sectional contests had been held previously, and every team at the Chicago meet was a champion and the cream of all canning clubs in its section of the country.

RUMOR HEILMANN MAY BE TRADED DETROIT CONTRACT HAS YEAR TO RUN

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—Frequent rumors, circulated since the close of the baseball season, that Harry Heilmann, Detroit's slugger, going to another American League club.

One report that gained wide circulation, takes Heilmann and two other Detroit players (still to be decided upon) to the Philadelphia Athletics for Edwin Rommel, Louis Mack's great knuckle-ball pitcher.

However, one fact that has not been published is that Heilmann is under a two-year contract to the Detroit club and this contract runs through the season of 1923.

Heilmann demanded $15,000 last winter. The player and Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club, finally agreed upon a two-year contract at $12,500 a season. Published reports said the contract was for one year and that gave grounds for the various rumors involving Heilmann, in trades.

Heilmann was the batting champion of the American League in 1921. He finished fourth this year with an average of .360. He injured his shoulder in a collision at first base late in August and was out for the remainder of the season. This gave rise to another rumor—that Heilmann's playing days were over.

Heilmann, after spending some time in a hospital in Washington, was brought to Detroit where his collar bone was broken by surgeons and reset. He did not leave the hospital until a week before the season closed but the injury has entirely mended.

Billy Evans Says

The game depends all upon the setting.

That is the opinion of Newell Williams Banks, who for 12 consecutive years has been the American match champion at checkers.

"Take an average checker board, the kind that you buy in most novelty stores—the kind with red and black squares and with the white and black pieces of cheap wood and all-matched, and lay it on a table in an office where many people pass and nobody will look at it, but get a regulation board with fine pieces, perfectly matched, and you will soon draw a crowd," is his argument.

Banks is positive that the many wonderful stadiums that are being built to accommodate the football crowds will have a tendency to greatly improve the game.

"Can you imagine the impression these great stadiums will make on the football students?" says Banks. They will stimulate interest. It will spur on the athlete who has played in his high school to greater efforts. It will make the student who has never played anxious to do his bit? Why? Consider the picture.

"Why do minor leaguers so long to play in the majors, and why do major leaguers players try so hard to hold on in the big leagues when they know their usefulness is about gone? It is the picture. They dread the thought of leaving it and the minor leaguers want to go up because of the glamor and the gloss and the glitter of the big-league stage, plus of course the additional salary.

"If you provide tasteful settings you secure converts to your chosen sport. In checkers, for instance. When you take a regulation board, where the squares are one and seven-eighths inches around and where the pieces are one and one-quarter inches in diameter and use the regulation colors, which are green and buff because they are restful to the eye, you immediately establish a psychological reason for attracting attention. Men want to play. You see these boards in chess and checkers clubs and there you also see the walnut and maple inlaid boards, artistic affairs that draw players.

"If the checker boards that are sold would be the regulation kind, a great many more people would play checkers."

WATER RATES IN ST. PAUL WILL BE INCREASED

St. Paul, Dec. 18.—Payment of a "service charge" by all water consumers in addition to the present rates was proposed in an ordinance submitted to the city council here. It would be effective January 1.

The ordinance is held certain as the council under the law is required to fix rates which will assure the water department of the city sufficient return to meet all of its expenses, including interest on bonds. Failure to do so would make the commissioners liable for action under charges of malfeasance in office. The plant is owned by the city.

In a report to the water commissioners, Commissioner J. H. McDonald estimates that the average increase to the small consumer by reason of the service charge would be about 19 cents a month.

He expects the charge to increase the revenue of the water department approximately $160,000 a year.

Explaining the proposed plan, Mr. McDonald says in a letter to the water commissioners:

"The charge for water may be divided into two parts, one called a service charge and the other a consumption charge. The consumption charge covers the cost of actually furnishing the water, including pumping, preparation of the water for consumption, repair and maintenance of the plant, etc.

"The service charge covers all or a portion of the debt expense, the cost of reading meters, billing, collecting, etc." The practice of collecting a service charge is followed as in many cities.

The 1923 expenses of the water department, Mr. McDonald estimates will be approximately $658,500. Under present rates, the income for the year would amount to only about $612,700, leaving a deficit of approximately $45,800.

With the service charge added, the estimated income for the year is $730,000, which would give a surplus of approximately $71,500.

Increased costs of labor and supplies and improvements in the service given are set forth as some of the reasons making an increase in revenue necessary.

"Virtually all cities have raised their rates, the increase being as much as 50 cent or more," Mr. McDonald stated.

No increase has been made in Minneapolis, the Commissioner explained, because there it is customary that the debt expenses of the water department be paid from the general city fund.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR CARS FROM GRAIN GROWERS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 18.—Requests for shipment of grain are being received in large numbers daily, particularly from southern Minnesota points. O. P. B. Jacobson, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission, announced today. Farmers in that district are meeting with considerable financial inconvenience due to the fact that they are unable to move their last year's crop.

Commission members are taking the matter up with the various railroad and urging them to speed up the return of equipment to this territory.

LEO REDMOND

Beef is still of value in modern football if it is combined with speed. Leo Redmond of Western State Normal school at Kalamsazoo, Mich.

is believed to be the heaviest player in college football. In the proverbial pink of condition he tips the scales at 298. His position is center.

There is more to Redmond's football ability than mere beef. He is exceptionally fast and a hard and sure tackler. Getting down the field on punts before his ends is his specialty.

Bill Spaulding, now head coach at Minnesota, formerly was football master at Western State Normal. Spaulding is the authority for the statement that Redmond would be able to win a place in the line of any "Big Ten" team.

Redmond has finished his football career, as the past season marked his fourth with Western Normal. Had Redmond been a member of a "Big Ten" team he would have been one of the most talked about players in the middle west.

Captain Pixley of Ohio State is the only western player who rivals Redmond as far as weight is concerned. Redmond has the edge in that respect, and leading coaches who have seen him play say he would have outplayed the famous Pixley had they been pitted against each other.

2 DAIRY FARMS MAKE PROFITS

One Yielded $7,000 and Other $6,000 in Past Year

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 18.—Two dairy farms in North Dakota made profits of more than $6,000 (one more than $7,000) in 1921, while most of the farms in the state which cooperated with the Agricultural College in keeping records were losing money. These figures are contained in a bulletin just written by Rex Willard, head of the farm economics department of the college and his assistants.

The farm that made more than $7,000 is located near Grafton and the other farm near Jamestown. The activities of these farmers include more than just farming, however, according to Mr. Willard who points out that they retailed the milk they produced. This method of operating is limited to the number of large towns in the state, he points out.

While these two farms were reaping profits one farm lost more than $5,000, two farms lost more than $4,000 and ten lost more than $3,000 each. On the other hand only two others of the 126 farms reporting made more than $2,000 and none but the two dairy farms came anywhere near such figures as $7,000.

An interesting sidelight which Mr. Willard noticed was that as the farms increase in size the tendency is to swing back and forth from profits to losses. While he has not fully developed this trend of studies it appears to him that there are a few sizes of farms which are for some reason more economically operated than others and which shows a profit while others too large or too small for a certain mode of farming do not do so well.

Advertising Needs Time to Develop Opportunities

Give Advertising Time: That is the thing it needs most.

The advertising agency is the precocious infant among the professions. One of the oldest agencies in New York prints on its letterhead the date of its founding, and that date is 1869! Think of it—almost ten years after the Civil War; and the boys of the Civil War are still alive among us.

Law traces its ideals and traditions back to Moses; but even Law is not free from missteps. The physician takes his Hippocratic oaths, and Hippocrates lived 400 B. C.

Yet it was only yesterday when doctors discovered that bad teeth can cause anything serious. Is it fair to expect perfection in a profession that counts only a single generation to its credit? Should it occasion surprise when even a well-laid advertising campaign goes wrong? Is it any wonder that workers whose chief raw material is human nature should have to confess that they cannot always tell in advance just how that raw material will act?

We are learning. We have just passed through one great cycle of inflation and deflation. We know now what happens to the automobile business, and the shoe business and the perfumery business when prices go up like a rocket and come down like a stick. How much wiser counsellors to our customers we shall be when another cycle swings around. How much better we shall be able to read the signs of the storm, having passed through one such tempest.

Do you remember the references in English novels to those old law firms—solicitors—in which sons have succeeded their fathers to the third and fourth generations? Each new generation of lawyers has handled the affairs of the new generation among its clients, dealing out counsel based on records which run back for a hundred years or more. There is no reason why advertising agencies, too, should not outlive their founders and the successors of their founders, growing wiser with each generation and gathering a priceless possession of recorded experience.

Think of an advertising agency in 2020 being able to turn back in the records to 1920 and say to its clients: "In the Fall of 1920 this happened in silk, and this happened in leather and this happened in wheat, and the selling problems which followed were so and so. The present situation has certain aspects that are similar; and the recommendations which we are presenting are based on a recognition of that fact."

We are gaining experience; we are growing more and more valuable as advisers every year. Don't expect the impossible. Give advertising time.

News of the Markets

WHEAT HITS NEW PRICES FOR WINTER

Chicago, Dec. 18.—With below zero weather prevailing and with adequate snow protection lacking for much of the winter crop, wheat jumped to new high prices for the season today during the early dealings. Bullish views of the foreign financial situation counted in favor of the buying side, and offerings were relatively small as compared with demand in which a number of strong commission houses took the lead. On the bulge in prices, however, profit taking sales brought about something of a reaction. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to 2 1/2¢ higher with May 123 1/2¢ to 123 3/4¢ and July 114 1/4¢ to 115 1/4¢, was followed by material gains all around.

Subsequently, profit taking sales having been absorbed, the market rose higher than before. The close was unsettled, 1 1/2¢ to 3 1/2¢ net higher, with May $1.25 1/2¢ to $1.25 3/4¢ and July $1.16 1/2¢ to $1.16 3/4¢.

The close was steady at 1 1/2¢ to 1 3/4¢ net advance, with May 75 1/2¢.

Corn as well as wheat touched new top records for the season. Rural offerings of corn were light as large arrivals here today were said to be chiefly to fill contracts. After opening unchanged to 1 1/2¢ higher, May 74 1/2¢ to 75 1/2¢, the corn market scored good gains.

Oats went up with other cereals, May 40 1/2¢ to 41 1/2¢ and later continuing to climb.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

PRICES ADVANCE

Duluth, Dec. 18.—Wheat prices were marked up sharply in today's market under the impetus of a combination of bullish conditions. Live-pool cables were higher and damage to the winter wheat crop was reported over sections of Illinois and Kansas. Strength also was attributed to attempts by the outstanding short interest in the December future to get under cover.

The market was fairly strong at the close. December wheat closed 1 1/2¢ up at $1.21 nominally and May 1 1/2¢ up at $1.23 1/2¢ bid; December durum closed 1 1/2¢ up at $1.02 1/2¢ bid and May 1 1/2¢ up at $1.05 1/2¢ bid.

Spot rye closed 1 1/2¢ up at 84 1/2¢; December 1 1/2¢ up at 84 1/2¢ bid and May 1 1/2¢ up at 88 1/2¢ bid. Spot oats closed 1/2¢ up at 41 1/2¢ to 42 1/2¢ and barely unchanged at from 45¢ to 61¢.

Fresh scrambling developed for flaxseed and its figures were marked up all along the line. December closed 6¢ up at $2.74 bid; January 6¢ up at $2.68 bid; May 4 1/2¢ up at $2.49 asked and July unchanged at $2.42 1/2¢ bid.

STEADY DEMAND

Minneapolis, Dec. 18.—There was a steady demand for cash wheat today and prices held very firm around the opening. Later on some of the buyers paid a cent more for selection of medium grade wheat and also for the limited offerings of fancy quality. Winter wheat demand held fair to good and offerings were moderate. Choice durum was weaker while the medium and lower grades were easy.

Corn prices were weak compared with futures.

Oats demand was fairly good.

Rye demand was steady.

Barley demand was good and prices were firm.

Flax opened stronger and demand was active for the fairly liberal offerings. No. 1 seed sold mostly at 3 cents over December.

NEWS OF WALL STREET

(By the Associated Press)

New York, Dec. 18.—A firm tone prevailed among the opening prices in today's stock market. A heavy accumulation of week end buying orders was noted in the minor oil, copper, motor and motor accessory shares. Cerro de Pasco led the copper group, being pushed up one point to a new high record for the year. Chino advanced 1 1/2¢ and large fractional gains were recorded by Anaconda, Ray Consolidated, Granby, and Inspiration. In the oil group there was a moderate inquiry for Middle States, General Asphalt, Shell Transport, Royal Dutch, and Sinclair.

Stromberg Carburator established a new peak price as did Fisher Body, which touched 214, up 2 1/2. Other strong spots were Gulf States Steel, Sears Roebuck, Jones Brothers Tea and Kelsey Wheel. Rails were sluggish, Union Pacific dropping 1/2¢ and Erie, Texas and Pacific and St. Paul preferred yielding fractionally. New York Central and Northern Pacific each advanced 1/2¢. Consolidated Gas and International Cement were weak. Foreign exchange opened irregular.

Speculators for the advance continued in control of the market throughout the morning. Railroad shares took a belated but active part in the upward movement. Reading, New York Central, Northern Pacific and Great Northern, preferred, rising 1 to 2 points. A better inquiry also was noted for the steel, equipment, chemical and merchandising shares. Several new high records for the year were established, notably by Westinghouse Airbrake, up 6 1/4; Union Tank, up 2 1/2; and Kelsey Wheel, up 3. Some shading of values took place before noon on announcement of stock exchange failure. Call money opened at 4 1/2 percent.

Buying of motor accessories shares went on confidently, despite the

MANY FRIENDS MOURN PASSING OF MR. MURPHY

New England, N. D., Dec. 18.—Many friends here mourn the death of J. J. Murphy, former cashier of the Security State bank here and one of the most widely known men in western North Dakota. Mr. Murphy's death was due to a broken gall bladder, following an operation for the removal of gall stones. He had been ill for four days. Always a rugged man of splendid physique Mr. Murphy had apparently been enjoying perfect health. In addition to his banking interest in New England, which he acquired in 1902 when he moved from Napoleon. Mr. Murphy has been active in the establishment of the Slope County bank at Amidon, the Bank of Midway at Midway, Slope county; the Farmers State bank of Havelock and the Security National bank of Mobridge, S. D. With his brother, P. B. Murphy, he also established a bank at Seehey, Mont. Although he suffered in the financial crash after the world war Mr. Murphy bent every effort to make his business ventures pay out and meet all obligations. He was a member of Dickinson Council No. 1515, Knights of Columbus.

Alcohol Is Confiscated at Dickinson

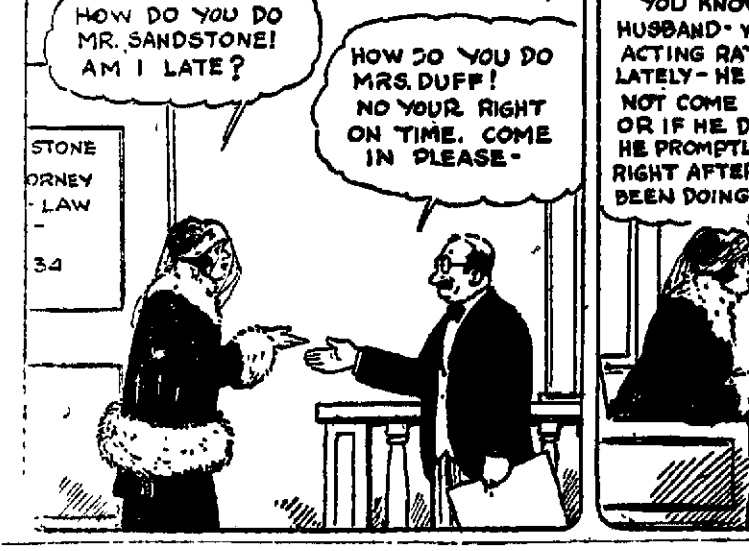

Dickinson, N. D., Dec. 18.—Billed as "dry goods" and packed in ordinary boxes 18 gallons of high grade alcohol consigned to A. Miller of New England, was confiscated at the local express office by State's Attorney J. P. Cain and Sheriff George J. Brown, following the serving of a search warrant upon Miller when he appeared to claim his property.

Acting on a tip received from authorities in St. Paul that the contraband would probably arrive on a certain train local officials prepared the necessary papers and appeared on the scene at Miller came to claim his property. They broke open the two wooden boxes and there found packed the contraband fluid which will presently be mixed with the turbulent waters of Heart river.

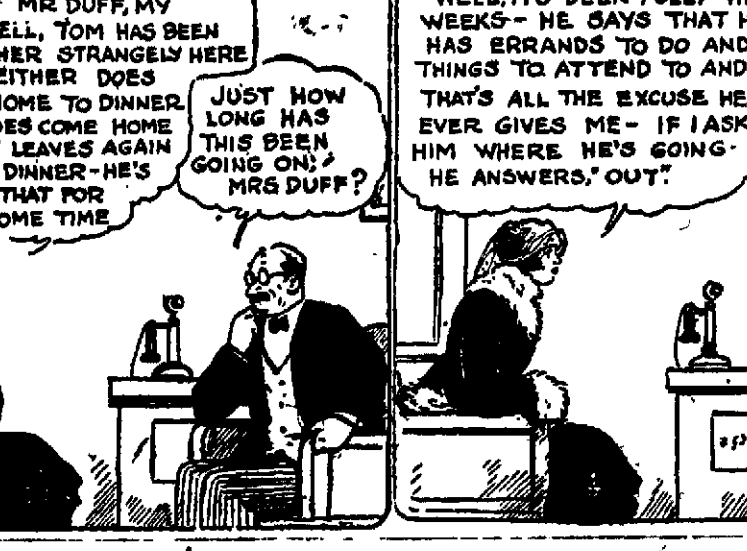

When taken into custody and questioned regarding the liquor, Miller broke down and caved like a child. He stated that he had been up against it and having an opportunity to get the alcohol thought that it would be the means of cleaning up a little easy money to help him out of his difficulties. He is a fine appearing young man a college graduate and fraternity member and has prominent family connections. For the past several weeks he has been working at New England driving a grain truck out of that city.

He will be arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Pugh in district court early this week on a charge of importing and having in his possession, intoxicating liquors.

KELLER CASE ACTION UP TO COMMITTEE

Body Will Investigate Possible
Action Against Minnesota
Congressman

Washington, Dec. 18.—The house subcommittee today to investigate what action, if any, should be taken in connection with the refusal of Representative Keller, Republican of Minnesota, to testify before the committee as to the information on which he based his impeachment charges against Attorney General Clegg.

There had been on indication meantime of any change in Mr. Keller's attitude toward the committee summons since he served notice through his counsel Saturday that he stood on his rights as a member of the house in refusing to respond to it, holding that the committee had exceeded its constitutional powers in issuing it. What action the committee would take in the matter appeared to hinge on its conclusion as to whether or not it proceeded with some members wanted to do at the last meeting, Saturday, although others were doubtful of the last meeting, Saturday, although others were doubtful of the committee's power.

After disposing of the situation resulting from Mr. Keller's withdrawal from the proceedings, the house committee plans to resume hearings on the impeachment charges tomorrow, with Representatives Woodruff of Michigan, and Johnson of South Dakota, appearing as witnesses.

INTERVENTION
OF AMERICA
CHIEF ISSUE

Europe Believes United States
Is Preparing to Participate in Her Affairs

British, Dec. 18.—Those newspapers to which the British public looks for solid and conservative guidance completely reject the idea that an American loan to Germany is probable, or, in present conditions, possible. These journals base their skepticism on long reports from their correspondents in the United States who appear to have probed important sources of information over the week end.

The possibility of American intervention in Europe's troubles still attracts attention here. Two or three of the morning newspapers reiterate with more or less striking embellishment last week's stories concerning an impending loan.

The consensus of opinion, however, is "that there is something in the wind," and that there is a distinct possibility that America, in some way that has not been divulged, will take a hand in helping to solve the difficulties which hitherto have baffled European statesmen. The times while approaching exaggeration of optimism, says that the "timorous" American intervention doubtless have a substratum of fact. The newspaper welcomes indications of the "fresh interest and understanding" the United States is showing in European conditions.

WOULD KEEP AGENT.

Beach, N. D., Dec. 18.—A committee of five, consisting of J. P. Smith, chairman, George Hammond, A. J. Beier, E. H. Mason, and Lew. Odland, was appointed to work out the details for a campaign to raise sufficient funds to finance the agricultural extension work of Golden Valley county.

The state agricultural college will continue co-operation by putting $1,200 and the services of its specialists into the county. A budget of $1,25 was submitted as the amount of funds to be raised in the county. The committee plans to allot this amount over a large territory, so that the burden of the individuals will not have to carry the burden.

The county agent proposal was defeated at the recent election.

GLENDIVE TO CELEBRATE DEDICATION OF NEW
$250,000 NORTHERN PACIFIC STATION

The new depot and division headquarters of Montana the Northern Pacific railroad at Glendive, Montana, is one of the finest and largest structures of its kind on the entire system of the Northern Pacific Railway. In architectural design, it is modern and may be classed as Northern Pacific depot style which is more adapted to business efficiency than mere beauty of outline or configuration. Its lines suggest directness, exactness and thoroughness without frills or ornamentation. The building is emblematic of the spirit and ideal of the railroad which built it. Hebron pressed red brick, with trimmings of white brick of the same type worked out in neat artistic designs, is the material employed for the exterior. It is fire-proof structure of concrete and brick throughout. The entire building is to be employed solely for the railroad purposes, the ground floor being devoted largely to passenger traffic purposes and the remainder for offices of the Yellowstone division of the Northern Pacific Railway. In the basement will be found storage room, vaults and the refrigeration plant of the dining car department since with the commencement of the year, Glendive will become the only other dining car supply station on the entire system besides those located at St. Paul, Minnesota and Seattle, Washington.

It Will Be Dedicated Dec. 20

That part of the building housing the officers of the division is three stories high and the remainder but one story. It is 286 feet long, facing the railroad tracks, and 42 feet wide with a height of 20 feet for the single story portion and 40 feet for the balance of the building. On the track side there is a passenger platform with red brick flooring extending 56 feet from the building to the first passenger train track, and is 380 feet long. This is intercepted by three grass and shrubbery plots, the center one of which is oval and the other two oblong. There are two additional platforms for train service, each of which is 1,000 feet long of the same material, and one of which is 18 feet wide and the other 15 feet between which runs the main track of the railway line. Passenger trains will stop in front of the depot on a special track for that purpose, capable of holding the longest passenger train, and thus leave the main track free for other uses.

This splendid new structure will cost over $250,000.00 for building and equipment. It was built to replace an old frame building destroyed by fire on January 15, 1921, and will be formally opened with appropriate ceremonies on December 20, 1922. In addition to this new station office building, the Northern Pacific Railway is also constructing a new central heating plant at a cost of $150,000.00, and a new fire proof storeroom building of concrete to cost $80,000.00.

Glendive is justly proud of its new railway station and will put on quite a celebration for the opening, to which railway men from all parts of the Northern Pacific will come including a special train of Pullman cars from St. Paul. The city welcomes the presence of every one to help in celebrating the opening. There are being mailed out to a number of railway employees who served formerly at Glendive, and are now scattered over the country, and railway officials of the Northern Pacific. Special invitations are being sent to commercial organizations and the press as they represent the community of their respective cities. Glendive has hung out the sign "Welcome" and cordially invites all to be present.

WALLACE REID

On Verge of Death For Several Days, Wife
Says

Los Angeles, Dec. 18.—Wallace Reid, motion picture star, is on the verge of death and for several days has not been expected to live according to Mrs. Wallace Reid (Dorothy Davenport) in an interview today in the Los Angeles Examiner, given at a Hollywood sanitarium last night.

One of the physicians, according to the Examiner, corroborated Mrs. Reid's statements, saying: "Mr. Reid has been near death for the last five or six days. His temperature has repeatedly reached 102 and his pulse 130. His heart action is irregular and weak, he has fainted on an average of three times daily, and has lost seventy pounds in weight. Laboratory findings at the present time indicate he is suffering either from a complete exhaustion condition or from influenza.

"A reinfection of influenza is possible at any time and could cause his death. This is not anticipated by attending physicians, but must be and is being considered."

"He thought he would die the other night," Mrs. Reid said. "He was so brave about it, poor boy. For three nights he had expected to die. He is not afraid to die, but he wants so much to live for Billy and Betty and me," referring to their son and adopted daughter.

Bismarck Boys

The big event at the Pioneer Grand Council last Monday night was the election of officers. Ernie Benser was elected Grand Chief, Ben Jacobson Deputy Grand Chief, and Ronald McIntyre, Grand Scribe. Retiring Grand Chief Al Watkins will present the new Chief with an Indian war club as the symbol of his authority at the Grand Council meeting tonight.

The speaker at tonight's council will be Chief Mahto Watakap (Charing Bear), who is Major Welch of Mandan. He will speak to the boys on the significance of the Pipe of Peace and how the Indians record their history.

Parents and friends of the boys are invited to the Grand Council to live condition or from influenza.

The Comrades will not meet on Thursday night, owing to the fact that the Senior class play is to be held on that night.

The Pioneers of the Wacht school elected the following officers last Wednesday night: Ed. Spriggs, Chief; Aubrey Coleman, Deputy Chief and Clarence Robinson Scribe. There are fifteen enthusiastic members on the South Side, and Russell Reid is the Pioneer Guide.

The Young Comers basketball league commenced last Saturday morning. The teams are as follows: Wild Cats—Captain Lawrence Kositzky, Harold Yeasley, Carl Hoffman, Bob Burke, Clarence Bahmer, and Leo Benser.

Tigers—Captain Ed. O'Hare, Dick Gallagher, Norm Nupen, Neil Cameron, Harold Corden and Jim Lund.

Lions—Captain Louis McCorrion, Don Kenniston, Geo. Eisenberg, Mirrel Engle, Jim Coleman, Cliff Forsythe.

Lynx—John O'Hare, captain, Jack Cowan, Spencer Sell, Jim Anderson, Bob Aune and John McNary.

In Saturday's games the Wild Cats defeated the Lions 2 to 1, and the Lynx defeated the Tigers 4 to 2.

Next Saturday the Wild Cats will play the Tigers and the Lions will play the Lynx.

The class in Astronomy held its first session on Saturday night at Mr. MacLeod's home—boys wishing to join this class should do so before next Saturday night.

Meeting of December 15, Troop 1, Bismarck. Barjert Jacobson presided in the absence of the Chairman, Robert Birdzell. A committee was appointed to formulate plan to raise some money for the troop. The committee consists of Robert Birdzell, Ralph Newcomb and Russell Le Barron. A committee consisting of Russell Le Barron, Robert Birdzell and Alfred Muir was appointed to see about getting a padlock and some other necessary things for the cabin. Motion made that no persons not members of Troop 1 be allowed to use the cabin without the Scoutmaster's permission. A committee consisting of Herbert Zvorist, Alfred Muir, Hugo Sheinker, and Bayert Jacobson was appointed to attend to the details of entertaining the other troops of the cabin during Christmas vacation. Barton Muir was made an associate member of Troop 1.

It was announced that hereafter the meetings would be held at 7:00 o'clock during the basketball season. Meeting then was adjourned.

Million Starving Children
Find Uncle Ara Best Friend

THE RUSSIANS love Uncle Ara. Along the Volga, where famine stalks, that is an American word which means comfort and protection and sometimes life itself. The people everywhere call the American Relief Administration "Uncle Ara" because the signs that are displayed over all the kitchens and food distributing stations read like this:

A. R. A.
Herbert Hoover, Pres.
Kitchen No.

In the Ukraine and White Russia, especially, there is always a line under the sign stating "Supported by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee." This organization has already contributed close to $4,000,000. to the work in Russia of the A. R. A. of which it is an integral part.

In addition to feeding over 1,000,000 children in the A. R. A. kitchens the Joint Distribution Committee is supplying food to practically all the children's homes and a great number of hospitals in the Ukraine and White Russia. The feeding work is carried on along purely non-sectarian lines. The Committee is fed about 2,000,000 persons daily.

Even casual observers in South Russia notice the effect and the work of the Committee thousands would have died of starvation. When one of its representatives enters a town, the children of all ages and races flock around him and cry "Uncle Ara! Uncle Ara!" for his presence generally means food. And that is the one thing that millions of the Russian people need more than anything else this winter.

SPANIARD IS GIVEN NOBEL HONOR PRIZE

Physics Award Goes to Prof.
Niels Bohr of Denmark

Stockholm, Dec. 18.—The reasons for its choice of prize winners in this year's award of $200,000.00 have been announced by the Nobel Institute. This Swedish institution awards annual prizes of $40,000.00 each for notable achievement in the fields of physics, chemistry, medicine, literature, and in the cause of peace. Sometimes the list of names selected is more or less surprising to the public at large, but in general the wisdom and insight of the judges is endorsed.

The award in literature, which seems to arouse more popular interest than any other, goes this year, not to Thomas Hardy, as had been hoped by his Swedish friends, but to the Spanish playwright Jacinto Benavente who, though little known outside of his own country, is said to have done more than any other dramatist to modernize, and bring fresh stimulus to the Spanish theater. He has written about 80 plays during the last 30 years. His comedies of social satire are directed at contemporary life in Spain, and he is not unlike Bernard Shaw in his ability to hold up the mirror to human nature. He is original in point of view, and refined in style.

Professor Albert Einstein, of Germany, received the 1921 prize in physics, not for his famous theories of relativity, but for his discovery and elucidation of a law regarding electrons and the photo-electric effect of atoms. "This law," said a prominent Swedish scientist, "is the bridge which leads from theories concerning atomic structure to facts which can be experimentally verified."

The physics prize for 1922 goes to Professor Niels Bohr of Denmark, who is only 37 years of age and the youngest person who has ever received a Nobel prize, for his discovery of methods by which the inner structure of atoms may be studied. He has, in fact, been able to construct atoms artificially which correspond in substance and spectrum analysis to the natural particles. Professor Bohr is of the opinion that every scientific advance, even those which for a time may seem only academic and fruitless, will some day have a direct practical value to humanity.

No announcement of awards of this year's prizes for medicine and peace have been made. It will be remembered that American peace prizes were captured by Elihu Root, and Theodore Wilson were the winners in 1906, 1912, and 1919 respectively.

The Nobel Institute was established by the will of Alfred Nobel Swedish scientist, best known for his invention of dynamite, who bequeathed his entire fortune of $9,000,000. kronor, about $8,000,000.00 for this purpose. The first annual prizes were distributed in 1901.

"SANTA'S LIEUTENANT" LOOKS LIKE
GOOD ST. NICK AND FURNISHES HIS TREES

By NEA Service

Portland, Me., Dec. 18.—"Yes, indeed I look like Santa Claus—but I'm only his first lieutenant," says Edward K. Chapman, and like Santa he is essential to the spreading of Christmas joy in the big eastern cities. For 56 years he has been shipping in their Christmas trees.

I returned, wounded from the Civil War. I was penniless too, and as it was near Christmas time, I decided to go into the woods to get the strengthening odor of the pines. I cut a carload of Christmas trees and took them to New York, where I employed 100 men to cut them."

GERMANY—1923! IT'S LAND OF STRIFE

BY MILTON BRONNER.
NEA Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—Beaten in war, pledged to pay vast reparations, deprived of much of her richest territory, and as yet, her financial structure tottering and her industry slackening, the eve of 1923 finds Germany threatened by foes without and foes within.

Every threat from without strengthens the hands of the foes within.

France is demanding Germany live up to the very letter of the bond signed at Versailles. There is always the threat that more German territory will be occupied by French troops.

Such an occupation would increase the financial burden of Germany, seriously cripple industry in the newly sized territory, and further paralyze the German mark.

Today there are only three main currencies which are cheaper than that of Germany—Polish, Austrian and Russian.

Every drop in the value of the German mark upsets everything in Germany. Every previous adjustment has to be adjusted.

It forces the issue of more paper money.

It causes people to stuff their wallets with thousand and ten thousand mark notes.

It increases the government's expenditures because it employs cheaply increased wages, and unemployed workmen and disabled soldiers get increased pensions.

It forces up the cost of everything people eat and wear—in paper marks.

It brings about universal demand for more wages—in paper marks.

It makes it ever more difficult for the country to buy abroad the foodstuffs and raw materials Germany must have if people are to be fed and clothed and if industry is to go on.

You would think that a Germany in which the mark had bobogged from 250 to the dollar last May, to about $400 at one time in November, would be a serious danger of becoming a second Russia.

But Germany is not a second Russia and not likely to be.

The people are too intelligent and too well educated.

On the surface things seem to be going well in Germany. There is little or no unemployment. Beggars are absent. The shops seem fairly well stocked. The people seem decently clothed. The thoroughfares are cleaner than in the average American city. The trains take care of the traffic and run on schedule.

In Berlin, hotels and restaurants are jammed. In most theaters a half day before the performance begins there is the sign "ausverkauft"—sold out.

But much of this selling prosperity is due to foreigners.

It is the "auslanders" who crowd the hotels and help fill theaters and restaurants. It is they who patronize the taxis at 1,500 to 6,000 marks per ride.

Walk away from the brightly lighted, well-kept main streets of Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen, what city you will, and go to the dimly lighted streets and you find another side of the German picture.

You find the middle class—the small tradesmen, the professors, the teachers, the old people who had retired before the war, the doctors—all these people pinched by hard times and sometimes almost starving.

Even the workmen protected by their labor unions and thus enabled to force up their earnings—in paper marks—find their wages too small to keep their families in comfort.

And it is here that the internal foes of Germany get busy.

To the left stand the Communists, to some extent fortified by Bolshevik money.

To the right stand the monarchists, largely financed by the great land-owning Junker class.

Communist agitators are very busy among the city workmen and the peasant laborers.

They say the present republic is a flat failure.

Posters designed to inflame thoughtless minds appear upon city billboards.

In Hamburg I saw a red sheet which asked the workman how he would live when bread cost 500 marks per loaf and hundreds of thousands of men walked the streets jobless. It said wages were only within 60 per cent of the cost of living. It proclaimed that the real enemies of the workers were the capitalists, the leaders of the old political parties, and the foolish sheep who allowed themselves to be led to the slaughter.

On the extreme right and more dangerous to the sorely troubled republic are the Kaiserists. They have their newspapers and their pamphleteers. They point out Germany's sad plight and then they hark back to the good old days under the Kaiser.

In some sections of Germany, recent elections have shown an increase in the votes for the Monarchist party. While the Communists dream of a red revolution which will make Germany Bolshevik, the Monarchists plan for another "putsch" which will once more put them in the saddle.

My own judgment is that there is more danger from the Monarchists than from the Communists.
